DETAILED ACTION

1. The request filed on August 23, 2002 for a Continued Prosecution Application (CPA) under 37 CFR 1.53(d) based on parent Application No. 09/530,290 is acceptable and a CPA has been established. An action on the CPA follows.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- 3. Claims 1-2, 8, 11, 14-15, 18 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Gaskins (USPN: 5,606,315).

Regarding claims 1, 8 and 15, Gaskins discloses a memory apparatus comprising a first storage region from which data can be read and into which data can be written, in accordance with instructions made by a user (Figure 1, Reference 20, regions where unprotected data and field service data is stored; C 4, L 24-31); and a second storage region, having a password associated therewith (C 3, L 38; C 4, L 14-19), from which data can be read and written by a data processing apparatus only when a user entered password correlates to the associated password (C 4, L 31-34, L 37-63; Figure 2A, References 50, 58, 60, 64 and 70) and when the data apparatus is designed to read from and write to the second storage region (Figure 1, Reference 20, region where password is stored, this region is accessed when the data processing apparatus changes the password, verifies a password or changes calibration information - Refer to C 4, L 20-67 – the data processing apparatus, (Figure 1, Reference 10 excluding Reference 20), only accesses the second storage region, Reference 20; the data apparatus is directly coupled to the second storage region and thus only reads and writes to this region);

Regarding claim 2, Gaskins discloses the first and second storage elements composed of nonvolatile memory (Figure 1, Reference 20).

Regarding claims 11 and 18, Gaskins discloses designating the second storage region of the memory apparatus upon receipt of instructions for writing data into the second storage region of the memory apparatus or reading the data from the second storage region, thereby writing the data into the second storage region or reading the data from the second storage region (password access; C 4, L 32-51).

Regarding claims 14 and 21, Gaskins discloses receiving instructions to read password data from the second storage region when the user makes instructions to write data into the memory apparatus or read data from the memory apparatus, thereby reading the password data from the second storage region, or writing data into the first storage region of the memory apparatus or reading data from the first storage region when the password data read from the second storage region coincides with the password data input by the user (occurs when an access to calibration data is attempted; C 4, L 53-63).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 5. Claims 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gaskins (USPN: 5,606,315).

Regarding claims 4-6, Gaskins discloses the limitations cited above, however, Gaskins does not disclose storing copyright data concerning the data stored in the first storage region, storing a use history of the memory apparatus in the second storage region nor storing quality history in the second storage region. Gaskins discloses storing sensitive data (password data) in the second storage region wherein access to the region is limited for certain operations. Clearly, this feature would be desirable for any data of a sensitive nature to prevent contamination of the data.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use Gaskins teachings with data, such as copyright data, memory history usage and quality history, wherein the data would be stored in an access limited region of memory for the desirable purpose of security and accuracy of data.

6. Claims 9-10, 12-13, 16-17 and 19-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gaskins (USPN: 5,606,315) in view of Estrakhri (USPN: 6,125,435).

Regarding claims 9-10, 12-13, 16-17 and 19-20, Gaskins discloses the limitations cited above, however, Gaskins does not explicitly disclose the data processing apparatus referring to a conversion table showing a physical address of the first storage region of the memory apparatus and data to be written into the first storage region or logic address of the data written in the first storage region, thereby writing the data into the first storage region or reading the data from the first storage region, wherein the data to be written is managed in units of files and the data processing apparatus designates a logic address of data from the data to be written into the first storage region of the memory apparatus or from the file name of the data written in the first storage region and refers to the conversion table, thereby writing the data into the first storage region or reading the data from the first storage region. Gaskins does not disclose the details involved in reading or writing the nonvolatile memory. Estrakhri discloses the above features (Abstract; C 6, L 46-60; C 7, L 66-67; C 8, L 1-65). Additionally, it is conventional in the art to manage nonvolatile memory efficiently as described above. Although, not stated in Gaskins teachings, it is evident that there is some form of memory management in the system. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to manage Gaskins' nonvolatile memory with the features described above for the desirable purpose of efficiency.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
